Red Cross Love in the Air

February is National Heart Month! During this month, I encourage you to share Red Cross love. By writing Valentine's cards for veterans or by learning life-saving CPR, you can make sure that your community is happy and heart-healthy. Let us know how you shared Red Cross love by emailing wyhe.nyc@gmail.com or by posting in our Facebook Group for a chance to be featured on RedCrossYouth.Org.

Apply for the Navin Narayan Scholarship

Have you been an active Red Cross volunteer for two years? Are you graduating high school in May and attending a four-year university this fall? Would you like an extra $1,000 to help pay your tuition? If you answered 'yes' to all of these questions, then you should apply for the Navin Narayan College Scholarship. The National Youth Council is looking for one extraordinary youth volunteer and that could be you.

Applications are available now. If you have any questions, please reach out to Shannon Vance at svance.nyc@gmail.com. Read about the 2015 scholarship recipient, Melanie Nomiya.

IHL in the Movies

Check out our newest activity guide: IHL in the Movies. Through this activity, you can teach International

Humanitarian Law (IHL) by watching a movie and discussing how IHL rules and principles apply. The activity guide contains a movie suggestion list and topical questions to ensure that your IHL movie night is a success. Learn More.

American Red Cross Internship Programs

If you are a college student interested in working for the Red Cross this summer, then apply for one of the internship opportunities in Washington, D.C. or at your local chapter.

Flirting for Disaster

If you are part of a Young Professionals group, then you can host a social networking event where young professionals can mingle, network, and raise money for disaster relief and lifesaving training. Flirting for Disaster can provide the opportunity to spread awareness of the Red Cross and attract new volunteers and donors.
